

Adnan Asgamas

C.T.Q:

This tutorial was useful and helpful. The mouse over button was little complicated at first but after you follow the steps your going to get the hang of it. I first started with this picture below:

At the image I used the brush tool to give it a darkish red. I also clicked on Blending options to give it a light to dark kind of color. For my second image I used the inner shadow style. After I'm done with the images, I used the code to create the mouse over button. This tutorial helped me to create an overlapping image for creating a pop out web. Then I plugged the words to the code and created the button.

```
</td>
<td width="478">
```